Chicago Tribune (Rep.) 'Thousands of men ordinarily Republican plumped their ballots for Tilden in 1876 because, they said, they 'wanted a change.' What did they want a change from? Perhaps the whisky ring organs in St. Louis and Chicago could tell."

MR. JUSTICE FIELD THE MAN. The Richmond Commonwealth is of the opinion that Judge Field would make an acceptable and available candidate for the Presidency, and says that he, together with Mr. Justice Chifford, dissented from the decision made by the supreme court in the re-cent political cause. He recognized the decision as cutting up by the roots the last vestige of States rights, and delivered a very powerful opinion, protesting against the doz-trine that the court laid down as an utter overthrow of the theory of our government, and in effect constituting it a centralized government at Washington, holding com-plete sway over every matter of individual concern personal to the citizen.

HON, E. B. WASHBURNE. Chicago Inter Ocean: "The Davenport Democrat, a German paper, still insists that Mr. Washburne is a possible Presidential candidate. It says it has it from good authority that Mr. Washburne has only declined to be a candidate against General Grant, and that when General Grant is out of the way Mr. Washburne will be in the field. The Democrat, like some other self-appointed and over zealous friends, does not seem to be aware of the unpleasant position in which it is placing Mr. Washburne. That gentleman authorized the statement made in the Inter-Ocean some weeks ago, that he not only was not a candidate, but that he 'was for General Grant first, last, and all the time.' To insist in the face of that declaration upon keeping has name before the country, as a possible or probable candidate, is not only a willful dis regard of Mr. Washburne's wishes, but an tation upon his siecerity, which places him in a false and painful position.'
